Activities after work:

My most important tasks to work on today in order to make progress on my PhD project are the following (list in order of importance):

—>Transfer the above mentioned tasks into the schedule on the next page. Decide in which order you are going to work on your tasks. If you can, work on the most important tasks early in the day. Before you schedule your tasks, decide on your breaks during the day and block that time out in the schedule as well.
